Project 3

“Feline Distraction”

For my project I wanted to create just any cool visuals that were distracting to my feline companion Khaleesi. Just as a back story I have been sick when creating this project so I have really done nothing but lay in bed, quarantined away from my family and friends and just have my cat in the room with me as comfort support. So I wanted to create things that looked visually appealing to my cat that would make her stay with me while I’m laying in bed sick. All of the visuals I made my cat will paw at or just stare like it’s the red dot of a laser pointer. I used the same color palette for all of my parts of the project to make them cohesive with one another. I found this project fun but I felt creatively stunted since I was focusing more on actually patterns and playing with the random and noise commands.
