Project 2

"A Spooky Night"

For my project I wanted to create an interactive scene using images I found/created. I created a scene that I pictured would be the most iconic "Halloween" scene and just made a spooky vibe for this project. With the moon appearing and reappearing at the click of a mouse, and the bat moving around with the mouse, I thought this piece would be fun for any audience. I used a lot of reference from other assignments and projects but was ultimately able to create something that is cohesive with one another. Manipulating images was fun, I want to play more with actual pixel stuff but that seems to be a process that really slows down my computer. I was trying to make the pumpkins light up but I think with the tint randomization it kind of helped somewhat make that visual communication.
